

Ground-breaking, informative and timely new book

Public Alternative to the Privatisation of Life provides comprehensive evidence of the failure of privatization and the economic, social and environmental damage to people's lives, working conditions and undermining of equalities. It details radical strategies for decommodification for a new era of public ownership and provision with participative and democratic accountability, quality public services, the preservation of nature and sustainable climate action.

"..delivers both incisive critique and an alternative vision."

Professor John Spoehr, Pro Vice-Chancellor – Research Impact and Director of the Australian Industrial Transformation Institute, Flinders University, Adelaide

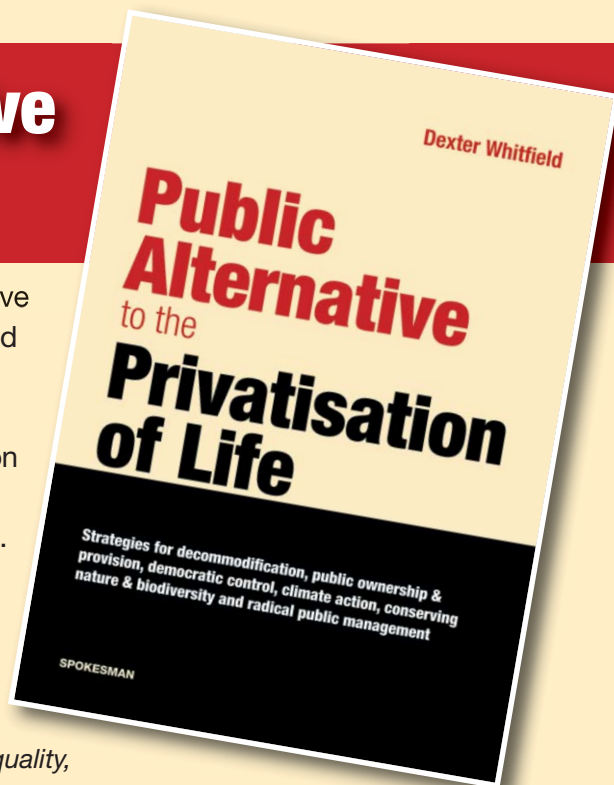

"..shows how privatisation damages our public services, increases inequality, undermines public pensions and exacerbates the climate crisis."

Laura Valentukeviciute & Carl Waßmuth, Gemeingut BürgerInnenhand, Germany

"..sets out how public services can be delivered using different models and for the benefit of all." Stewart Smyth, PhD. Director, The Centre for Research into Accounting and Finance in Context, Sheffield University Management School

"I strongly recommend this book." John Burgess, Barnet UNISON Branch Secretary, London

"..provides the research, analysis and strategy for resisting privatisation whilst demanding reform and renaissance in Public Services." Richard Whyte, Regional Officer, Unite, Scotland

Dexter Whitfield is Director of the European Services Strategy Unit and Adjunct Associate Professor, Australian Institute for Industrial Transformation, Flinders University, Adelaide.
